++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
A dry, sunny start. Cloud and patchy rain arriving later.

Today:
A bright and dry morning with plenty of sunshine. Staying largely dry with sunny spells as the day goes on, but thickening cloud will bring a risk of some patchy outbreaks of rain at times later. Maximum temperature 16 deg C (61 deg F).

Tonight:
Staying cloudy overnight with outbreaks of patchy rain remaining likely, especially for eastern areas. A milder night than recently, and largely frost-free. Minimum temperature 2 deg C (36 deg F).

Wednesday:
After a cloudy start with further patchy rain possible, it will become dry with hazy sunshine for southern areas and clear skies across Cumbria. Feeling slightly colder than recently. Maximum temperature 14 deg C (57 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Staying fine and dry throughout the period, with plenty of sunny spells and patchy fair-weather cloud. Temperatures remaining close to average, but overnight frosts are still possible.
